

HELLO GIGGLES

This manicure will run you $25,000

September 26, 2015

This luxury manicure takes the concept of “treat yo self” to a whole other level.

Images Luxury Nail Lounge is not your average nail salon. They offer manicures, pedicures, acrylics and gels — all the regular services you would expect from a nail salon. But they also offer a luxury package called the Glitz & Glamicure that will run you a cool $25,000. And it pulls out ALL of the stops.

The manicure — which is really more of a lavish spa day — starts at $10,000, but can cost you $25,000 or more (depending on your diamond preference, of course). According to the Images Luxury Nail Lounge website, the luxury package includes a personal jeweler consultation, a one-hour massage, professional hair stylist and makeup artist services, a facial, and your choice of eyelash extensions or waxing/threading. The champagne and imported French pastries are complimentary, of course.

We have a lot of questions about this manicure. How long is it supposed to last? What happens if it chips? Do you have any input on the diamond pattern? What do you do with the diamonds after the manicure wears off? Can you collect them and re-use them with the same package at a discounted price? Has anybody ever been robbed for the diamonds in their manicure? How much will a polish change run me?

$25,000 is a crazy amount of money to spend on a manicure, but hey, if you can afford it and that's how you want to spend your money, more power to you. Everyone needs a #treatyoself day every once and a while. So the next time you're feeling fancy, strap on your Million-Dollar Bra from Victoria's Secret and indulge in the ultimate pampering package.